

Estimated Losses of Ships, Men and Money in the Most Destructive of Naval Battles

Loss of life, British, (estimated).....	4,800
Loss of life, German, (estimated).....	2,000 to 2,750
Number of vessels lost, British.....	14
Number of vessels lost, German, (estimated).....	10 or 11
Tonnage lost, British.....	115,000
Tonnage lost, German, (estimated).....	27,000 to 51,000
Loss in money value, British.....	$115,000,000
Loss in money value, German... ..	$27,000,000 to $51,000,000

In the destruction of the Russian Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet in the war with Japan, in 1905, twenty-one ships were sunk and 4,000 lives were lost.

The New York Times

Published: June 3, 1916
Copyright © The New York Times